

Cooper Enjoys Long Celestial Ride

They Know Ail About Birds, Bees

Don't tell the Jerry Engle family, 820 South Osage, about the birds and the bees. The old Crandall house next door is being razed by the Presbyterian Church to make room for a new church structure.

The upper floor of the old showplace was full of pigeons and their refuse. For years the birds have cooed there and raised their families. One of the pigeons was at the Engle house until Sam, the Siamese cat, found him. Most of the birds left the old homestead to sit on the steeple and roof of the church. They sit there, eyeing the dismantling of their home with disapproval.

But, the bees are not taking their eviction lightly. No one told them you can't stop progress. Mutual recognition by workmen and bees took place as an exterior wall of the structure was wrecked. For a while it was a question of who was razing what.

Clouds of the bees hovered above the house and around the Broadway and Osage area Tuesday. A man was called to come round up the insects. Heavily suited and netted, he was able to attract quite a few into a hive. People walking down the street in that vicinity and those passing in convertibles who were not aware of the situation, soon became so.

The thought had crossed Mrs. Engle's mind that the bees might swarm at her house. They have done just that—all over the front porch and in a tree in the yard. Some in the house. A few stings have resulted. In fact, the family left home for a short while last night. Now, when they are home, they dart in and out the back door. Passersby must view their actions with suspicion. They scan the sky and run like mad, then slam the door.

Pettis County Assessment Is Completed

Pettis County's locally assessed valuation on real estate and personal property increased in 1963 by $1,833,890 over the previous year, according to figures released Tuesday by Jerry Trotter, county assessor.

Trotter attributed the valuation increase to the influx of persons connected with the Minuteman missile complex project underway in the area. In the main, the increase came from a $983,680 hike in total personal valuation and in a $750,580 rise in real estate valuation in the city of Sedalia. Trotter said.

The increase was shown in the tabulation of assessment figures for this year. Tabulation of the totals has just been completed in the assessor's office.

A breakdown on real estate and personal valuation, as prepared by Trotter's staff, follows:

Real Estate:

Farm Lands — 1963, $14,389,890;

1962, $14,380,990; an increase of $208,900.

Small Towns — 1963, $1,265,450;

1962, $1,219,780; an increase of $45,670.

Central Missouri Electric Cooperative — 1963, $41,650; 1962, $41,650; the same.

Pittsburgh-Corning—1963, $141,400; 1962, $141,400; the same.

City of Sedalia — 1963, $21,476,400; 1962, $20,905,820; an increase of $570,580.

Rural Platted Outside Sedalia—

1963, $315,350; 1962, $290,290; an increase of $25,060.

Real Estate Grand Total—1963,

$37,830,140; 1962, $36,979,930; an increase of $850,210.

Total Personal — 1963, $12,019,200; 1962, $11,035,520; an increase of $983,680.

Total Valuation (real estate and personal) — 1963, $49,849,340; 1962, $48,015,450; an increase of $1,833,890.

Aerosol Spray Bombs To Ward Off Dogs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Five hundred aerosol spray dog bombs will be given to San Francisco mail carriers today to be used against dogs who attack them, a Post Office spokesman said.

The spray cans, about four inches long and shaped like lipsticks, are filled with a solution of mineral oil and oil of capicum—an extract of cayenne pepper.

Great Team Of Medical People Alert

Temporary Medical Centers Arranged Around the World

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A great medical team, backed up with everything from aspirin to X-rays, has been mobilized to support astronaut Gordon Cooper's long orbital flight.

Hundreds of medical specialists, nurses and technicians are on the alert around the world for Cooper's intended 22 orbit flight lasting 34 hours.

Thousands of surgical instruments, carefully checked, sterilized and packed at nearby Patrick Air Force Base, have been distributed to temporary medical centers in many countries and on 27 ships at sea. The equipment, by Air Force count, weighs 95,611 pounds.

Each of the ships is staffed with a surgeon, anesthesiologist and medical technician.

Two teams of medical specialists are ready to fly anywhere in the world if needed. The teams, including top surgeons and specialists in neurology, plastic surgery, internal medicine, pathology and orthopedics, are stationed at the U.S. Army Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii, and the United States Naval Hospital in Portsmouth, Va.

If Cooper requires hospitalization he will be rushed to one of these "specialty team" hospitals or to one of seven military "recovery support" hospitals—Air Force hospitals at Patrick; Kindley, Bermuda; Lajes, Azores; and Clark, Philippines; a Naval hospital at Yokosuka, Japan; an Army hospital on Okinawa; and Cubi Point Naval Air Station Hospital in the Philippines.

As Cooper zips above the Project Mercury global network of tracking stations, medical men at each post will keep a close watch on instruments which will relay body temperature, pulse, heart beat, blood pressure and other measurements. If anything seems amiss, they will be ready to order the astronaut back to earth.

There are a total of 12 planned landing areas—seven in the Pacific and five in the Atlantic. Ships will be in each area, each with a medical team trained for any emergency.

Aircraft carriers stationed at strategic points under the orbital paths are equipped with miniature hospitals—portable X-ray, resuscitator, iron lung, anesthesia machine, whole blood and the like.

If Cooper completes his full 22 orbits as planned, he will pop into the ocean east of Midway Island in the Pacific and will be taken aboard the aircraft carrier Kearsarge for extensive medical and psychological tests.

If trouble should force Cooper's capsule to land somewhere other than one of the 12 planned landing areas—in the jungles of Africa or South America or in a remote section of ocean—pararescue teams are deployed around the world for quick flight to any landing area.

Planes attached to U.S. military missions around the world would join the 12 aircraft assigned to the mission in such a contingency situation. Ships and planes of other nations also would join the search.

Large Portion Of Sedalia Loses Lights Tuesday

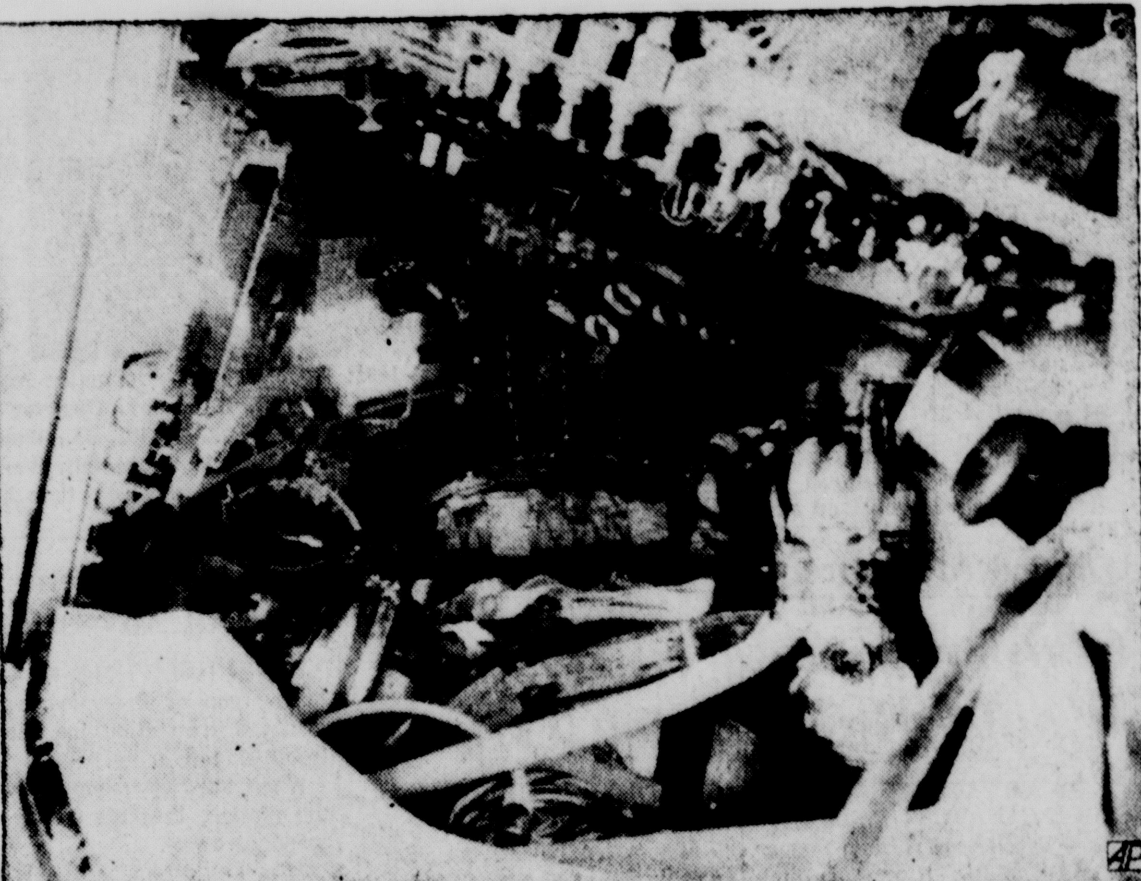

A large area of west Sedalia was plunged into darkness about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night when a "pot head" on a transformer at the substation located at 11th and Grand avenue blew up. Service was restored approximately an hour and a half later.

The blackout centered around Ninth Street to Main and from Warren to Osage. The head blew up and one line burned in two. Other wires were intact and service was soon restored to some areas.

It was considered a "mystery" as to why the head blew, but it was also explained moisture apparently formed inside the head from high humidity and the on and off cool weather.

Clinton Black, electrical engineer for the Missouri Public Service Co., explained six repairmen were called out to run the lines and ascertain the location of the trouble. As soon as it was located service was restored completely.

at 9:35 o'clock.

The Weather

Mostly cloudy through Thursday with occasional showers and thunderstorms; locally heavy thunderstorms likely tonight. Only minor temperature change with low tonight 55-60; high Thursday 75-80.

The temperature Wednesday was 64 at 7 a.m., and 82 at 1 p.m. Low Tuesday night was 63, with .52 of rainfall up to 1 p.m.

Lake of Ozark stage: 55.8 feet; 4.2 below full reservoir; minus 2.

Judge Rules Beer Theft Is a Felony

Judge Frank Armstrong ruled in Magistrate Court Wednesday morning that beer taken the night of April 23 from Fichtel Beverage & Sales, Inc. was valued in excess of $50 and bound over two young Sedalia men, accused of the theft, to Circuit Court on felony charge.

Bound over for trial were Glen Wayne Yahne, 17, 914 East 17th; and Delbert Arnold, 20, 804 West Henry.

An issue of 30 cents had been argued in the case as to whether the pair should be charged with a felony or a misdemeanor.

At a preliminary hearing May 9, William F. Brown, attorney for the two youths, argued that the beer was valued at $49.70 after Steve Fichtel, a proprietor of the firm, testified $7.10 per double case was paid by the firm for seven double cases of beer. This value would make the crime a misdemeanor, Brown maintained.

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz, however, said the beer should be valued at $8 per double case, the price Fichtel would have received if the beer were sold to retailers. The $56 value placed the crime in the felony class and the two youths were charged by the state with stealing merchandise valued at over $50.

Judge Armstrong took the case under advisement until Wednesday morning.

After hearing arguments from both Fritz and Brown, Judge Armstrong said the beer should be considered for its reasonable value if sold at public auction or on the open market.

"If sold on the open market, the beer might bring $7.10, or more or less," Judge Armstrong said, "but I'm of the opinion it would bring more."

"I am binding both of these men over to Circuit Court and the indictment of grand theft will stand," he said.

Judge Armstrong set bond for the two at $1,000 and Arnold met the bond and was released.

Yahne, currently serving a 30-day sentence in the city jail on conviction of a destruction of property charge, was ordered returned to the city's custody. Judge Armstrong instructed Sheriff Emmett Fairfax to present the city with a hold order for Yahne so that he will be held after his city jail sentence is served unless the $1,000 bond is met.

Two juvenile aged boys are also being dealt with in connection with the beer theft. A hearing for the juveniles is set for Saturday before Judge Frank Hayes, the Democrat-Capital was informed.

Launch Is 'Beautiful,' Wife Says

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"Beautiful."

That was the way Mrs. Gordon Cooper described the launch of her astronaut husband's mercury capsule at Cape Canaveral, today.

Mrs. Cooper and her daughters—Camala, 14, and Janita, 13—watched the launch in the privacy of the master bedroom at their home 25 miles east of Houston.

It was more than an hour later that Dave Schwartz, a public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, left the ranch style home and gave newsmen Mrs. Cooper's one-word reaction.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper asked him to say nothing more in behalf of herself and the daughters.

He said the mother and girls went into the master bedroom 15 minutes before launch and were smiling when they returned to the den after it was certain the blast-off had been successful.

Just 30 minutes before launch they received a telephone call from Cooper from his capsule.

Schwartz would not give details of the telephone conversation but said the family appeared more relaxed while awaiting the start of the scheduled 34-hour space flight that had been the case Tuesday when radar trouble at Bermuda caused a postponement.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper and the daughters will remain in seclusion and will make no appearances before newsmen until the end of the flight and Cooper's successful recovery.

They had three television sets turned on for today's launch.

Mrs. Cooper arose at 4:30 a.m. The girls, up until about 10 o'clock Tuesday night, slept until 6:05 a.m.

Flight At A Glance

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Here are the facts on today's space shot:

PILOT—Gordon Cooper, 36, an Air Force major; married, two daughters; the fourth American to orbit the earth.

LAUNCH—8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

GOAL—22 orbits of the earth, lasting more than 34 hours.

LANDING—Scheduled near Midway Island in the Pacific Thursday.

PURPOSE—Mainly to obtain space medicine information on how a man reacts to prolonged weightlessness and little freedom of movement.

Confusion Over Free Parking Days in City Due to Definition

Last winter an ordinance was passed by the city council designating the "free" days on city parking meters. Through a misunderstanding the "Armed Forces Day" was listed as a free day. This was in error and was confused with "Veterans Day," or Nov. 11.

The ordinance defines the following "free days" on the parking meters other than Sundays: New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, Memorial Day, May 30; Fourth of July, Independence Day; Labor Day in September; Veterans Day, formerly Armistice Day, Nov. 11; Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

The ordinance is number 6162 and was passed in December 1962.

Plan to Re-train Workers In State Education Plan

A plan to re-train workers in the Sedalia-Marshall-Warrensburg area in certain jobs was brought out at the regular meeting of the Sedalia Board of Education Tuesday night.

The plan, outlined by Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, involves the re-training of workers to become auto mechanics and stenographers. The training will be conducted by the public school authorities, and will be paid for by the State Department of Education.

Norris said he has contacted the Queen City Motor Co., and the Central Business College, and the training may be conducted at these places.

The re-training plan was advanced after a recent report showed that in this area, there are numerous people drawing unemployment security benefits, and at the same time there is a shortage of auto mechanics and stenographers in the same area.

The training plan, those drawing unemployment benefits in other fields would be given the opportunity to re-train in the mechanical or stenographical field and obtain employment in the area, thus evening out the supply-demand ratio.

The program is now only in the planning stage. Norris pointed out, but should be in effect in a short time.

At the meeting the board opened and accepted the lowest bid on painting the Smith-Cotton auditorium, on tile for six rooms at Washington School, on cork for bulletin boards, on blacktopping an outside basketball court at Jefferson School, and on replacement typewriters.

The board accepted the bid of Otis Hammond on painting the auditorium for $2,184.

The bid submitted by the Cook Paint Co., on the tile, $915, was accepted. This was the lowest bid by a firm that complied with the bid call by furnishing samples of the tile to be furnished.

The bid submitted by the W. J. Menefee Construction Co., on the blacktopping job, $1,750, was taken under advisement. This was the only bid submitted.

The Wise Typewriter Co. was awarded the typewriter contract for $735.

Dr. Norris read a report from the State Department of Education, in which the Sedalia public school system, despite some minor corrections noted, retained its AAA rating.

P. A. Sillers, director of education, said the school system (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 7)

Round and Round To a New Record

Launches His Own Satellite As He Speeds Across Ocean

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper raced 'round and 'round the world today en route toward an American man-in-space record. He described his flight as "quite a thrill," and launched his own private satellite into orbit.

As Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft sped high above the South Atlantic Ocean during the third of his intended 22 orbits, the pilot pushed a switch which ejected a 10-pound sphere from the base of the capsule.

The sphere, 5.75 inches in diameter and equipped with two high intensity flashing lights, settled into an orbit slightly different from that of Faith 7.

Cooper reported to a tracking post on Ascension Island that the sphere had been released successfully. But there was no immediate report on his observation of the xenon gas lights which were to blink once every second.

However, Mercury Control Center reported later that it had received a partially garbled message from Cooper which indicated that perhaps the experiment was not as successful as originally thought.

The Air Force major, 36, was to observe the lights during nighttime phases of the third, fourth and fifth orbits in a test of his ability to judge distances and to see a light of known intensity in space. This would be important to future rendezvous missions in the Gemini and Apollo manned space programs.

Cooper kicked the satellite into orbit 3 hours 29 minutes after he blasted off from Cape Canaveral at 8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time atop an Atlas rocket. The great booster performed perfectly in propelling him into an orbit ranging from 100.2 to 166 miles above the earth.

Faith 7 reached a peak speed of 17,546 miles an hour and circled the globe once every 88.45 minutes.

The flight, conducted in the full glare of publicity in contrast with the secrecy of the Soviet Union's manned space flights, was hailed by people around the world.

President Kennedy in Washington expressed happiness at the success of the launching and followed the flight closely.

Among millions of earthbound people around the globe, there seemed to be greater enthusiasm for the American manned space flight than at anytime since John H. Glenn Jr. soared aloft as the first orbiting American on Feb. 2, 1962.

This probably was because the two orbit flights in between were relatively short—M. Scott Carpenter's three orbits and six orbits by Walter M. Shriver Jr. — in comparison with the 64 and 48 orbit missions made by Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich.

European radio and television stations broke into regularly scheduled programs with spot news of the launching. The same was true in Japan and in other areas of the world. Havana radio provided frequent reports for Cuban listeners.

"Beautiful" was the way Cooper's wife Trudy described the launching, which she watched on television in her Houston, Tex., home, with their two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13.

Cooper's mother, Mrs. Hattie Cooper, watched the telecast at the home of her mother, Mrs. Orena Herd, in Tecumseh, Okla.

"Don't you know Gordon is thrilled," his mother exclaimed. Tears were the only visible emotion from the 82-year-old grandmother, who rocked more and more slowly in a rocking chair as she watched the rocket rise.

As Faith 7 whirled through the heavens, Cooper frequently made satisfactory reports about his personal condition and the systems in the spacecraft. Early in the flight there was some concern about high temperature in the cabin but this quickly cleared up.

As he passed above California near the end of orbit No. 2, he told the tracking station at Point Arguello that he was "comfortable, real comfortable in fact, I even had a little nap."

If Cooper completes the full flight, he will be up for more than 34 hours, dropping to a parachute landing in the Pacific Ocean southeast of Midway Island shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Cooper Is Proud Of Son Gordon

Butterflies In Stomach, Mother Says

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP)—"Don't you know Gordon is thrilled?" proud Mrs. Hattie Cooper exclaimed this morning as her astronaut son's space rocket knifed through the sky.

Tears were the visible emotion from her mother and the astronaut's grandmother, Mrs. Orena Herd, who rocked more and more slowly in a chair a few steps away from Mrs. Cooper.

With them to watch the countdown and eventual successful blastoff were Mrs. Herd's pastor, the Rev. Roma Stewart, a neighbor, Mrs. Mattie Hartoon and a half dozen newsmen.

"Butterflies is right," Mrs. Cooper admitted when a newsmen casually remarked that the mounting tension created stomach outflutters.

For about 15 minutes — five minutes before and until ten minutes after blastoff—about the only audible sounds came from a tiny bell and a chattering parakeet in the dining room.

Mrs. Herd said nothing. At blastoff, her rocking chair stopped; there was a faint sobbing and tears swelled in her eyes.

"Can you imagine that that's Gordon," Mrs. Cooper said when the voice of her son in the orbiting space vehicle was heard for the first time on television.

Mrs. Herd said, "I'm giving the good Lord the praise. He's directing it. I'm just thankful to the good Lord that He gave him a good start."

"Sure I'm proud of Gordon. I'm always proud of him."

For Mrs. Cooper, the successful start of the flight came just one day before her 63rd birthday.

Mrs. Cooper, of Carbondale, Colo., planned to remain here in the home of her mother for the remainder of the flight.

Suffers Bad Electrical Burn Today

Marvin Ehlers, 39, 1316 East 14th, a lineman for the Central Missouri Electric Cooperative on north Highway 65, suffered electrical burns and received several fractured bones about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday morning in a line accident in the southeastern part of Saline County.

He was taken to Bothwell Hospital in a Ewing ambulance and given emergency treatment by Dr. Karl Gosner. Ehlers received burns on both arms and hands and on the left leg. It was also reported he had five cracked ribs and a cracked pelvis. His condition was listed as fair by the hospital, and he was reported conscious.

George Ray, manager for the REA cooperative, said Ehlers was working with another lineman, Charles Pahlow, 1908 South Quincy, and the men were three miles north of the junction of Route J and Highway 40 when the accident occurred.

Ray said Ehlers was fusing a transformer and was approximately 20 feet up a 30-foot electric pole when he was injured.

It could not be immediately determined how Ehlers received the electric shock. He fell to the ground and was knocked unconscious, but responded to mouth-to-mouth respiration administered by co-worker Pahlow.

Amazed At Progress

Cooper Wondered If Man Would Make Space Trip

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—

As a boy, Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. read Buck Rogers in the funny papers and wondered whether man would fly into space before the 25th century.

Today he's amazed at the swift events which have sent astronauts into space in his lifetime—and his participation as one of the pioneers of this great effort.

If anyone seemed destined for space flight, it was Cooper. He has been flying as long as he can remember.

His father, an Air Force colonel, was a close friend of such aviation greats as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, and Gordon used to listen intrigued to their flying conversations. The elder Cooper took his son aloft almost before he could walk.

"Gordo"—as his fellow astronauts call him—recalls first handling the controls of a plane when he was 6 and flying his first solo at 16.

Cooper's mother says her son always was interested in airplanes.

"Gordon made a lot of model planes," she reported recently at her Carbondale, Colo., home. "Later, when he was a senior in high school at Shawnee, Okla., he had a good friend who ran an airport. Gordon worked there to pay for flying instruction. He soloed then, while his father was serving with the Air Force in the Pacific."

The senior Cooper died of cancer in 1960.

Had Mrs. Cooper ever worried about Gordon's early-day flying?

"I worried about it, yes," she replied. "But I once asked that question of another mother who had three boys who were flying. She said, 'Don't you know that God's up there the same as on the ground?' and she went on knitting. I have always tried to remember that."

Cooper, a Methodist, feels much the same way.

"Religion is important in all the things we do," he says. "But I don't think a man needs to fall back on his faith any more or less in this space project than in any other undertaking."

Cooper was born March 6, 1927,

Get to See Firemen Without Any Effort

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—One little troop of Brownies went to visit the fire station and one little troop stayed home.

When the first troop arrived at the station, the fire trucks were speeding away.

After half an hour, Mrs. William R. Delay, troop leader, took the girls back to St. Elizabeth's Catholic church.

There they found the firemen were just leaving after putting out a fire in a ventilating fan — and greatly entertaining the Brownies who stayed home.

in Shawnee. After graduation from high school in 1945, he entered the Marine Corps and spent some time at the Naval Academy Preparatory School. After his discharge in 1946 he attended the University of Hawaii for three years.

At the university, he met and married the former Trudy Olson of Seattle, Wash. Under Cooper's instruction, Trudy soon had a pilot's license. The couple explored the Hawaiian islands in a Piper Cub. They took their first baby for a plane ride soon after she was born.

The Coopers now have two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13. They live in Houston, Tex., site of the manned spacecraft center.

While at the University of Hawaii, Cooper received an Army commission, which he transferred to the Air Force. In 1949, he was called by that service for extended flight duty. After training he was assigned to the 86th fighter-bomber group in Munich, Germany, where he piloted F84s and F86s for four years.

He later attended the Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, and earned a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering in 1956.

He then was assigned to the Air Force experimental flight test school, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and helped design and test experimental fighter aircraft.

Cooper, now an Air Force major, has logged more than 2,600 hours flying time, 1,600 in jets. As a test pilot, he has had several close calls, so the danger posed by space flight causes him no concern.

He and fellow astronaut Virgil I. Grissom had a near-fatal plane accident before their selection in 1959 as space candidates. They were taking off in a T33 jet trainer when the landing gear collapsed. The plane crashed and burned but both men escaped unharmed.

Trudy feels that Cooper's Mercury schedule, which separates the family for long periods, is no more strenuous than his test pilot days.

She was elated when he was selected to make a space flight which could keep him in orbit for more than a day.

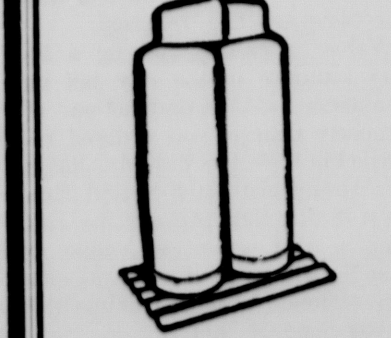

"I'd go with him if I could," she said.

She also shares his enthusiasm for wanting to travel one day to the moon.

At 36, the youngest of the original band of seven Mercury astronauts, Cooper feels age favors his selection for a lunar landing.

Skirt Brevity Sends Girls Home From Class Trip

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—"She has nice knees and I don't blame her for showing them," said John Pfifer, whose daughter, Jo Ann, was sent home Tuesday from a high school class tour of Washington because her skirts were too short.

Jo Ann, 18, had completed five days of the scheduled 10-day bus tour of the East Coast with 87 classmates. She worked as a sales clerk to earn most of the $400 required for the tour.

Jo Ann, a senior at suburban

Mehlville High School, said the principal and four teacher chaperones warned her to lengthen her skirts, borrow another girl's clothes, constantly wear a coat, or return home.

"Half the clothes Jo Ann took along were those she has worn to school," said her father, Kermit Bierbaum, superintendent of schools, declined to comment.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: When I saw in the paper that you went to Russia a couple of years ago I figured you were a Commie. Now, after reading your answer to "Proud American," I am sure of it.

Just because the man wrote and said he was sick and tired of seeing foreigners come over here and get rich while red-blooded Americans can't even find jobs you called him an "ignorant malcontent."

The foreigners are the ignorant malcontents. That's why they come to America. They aren't satisfied over there so they come here to get rich. The foreign pigs elbow their way in by the millions. And what do they do when they get here? They criticize our government, our manners, our schools and our children. No matter where they came from it was always better "over there."

The foreigners worm their way into factories and businesses, starting at the bottom, pretending to be grateful and humble, and before you know it they are in the top jobs and the true Americans are out on the street.

I'm in favor of shipping five million foreigners right back to where they came from and giving their jobs to deserving unemployed Americans. — FLAG WAYER AND PROUD OF IT.

Dear Flag Wayer: Thank you for your point of view. Here is another letter—on the same subject:

Dear Ann Landers: I was deeply interested in your splendid reply to "Proud American" who complained because foreigners were coming over here taking jobs which should be reserved for "true Americans."

Over the past 10 years more than 100,000 immigrants entered this country, bringing with them skills declared to be in critically short supply in the United States. One of our most serious shortages, according to the U. S. Department of Labor, is in the field of engineering. Of the 100,000 especially skilled immigrants who entered this country in the past decade 31,000 were engineers. This represents 80 per cent of the number of engineers graduated from United States schools during 1961.

Immigrants are making essential and laudible contributions to our country. They are not displacing "true Americans" they are creating jobs for Americans by contributing to this country's economy.—R.N.W. OF THE U. S. COMMITTEE FOR REFUGEES.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a good father and an excellent provider—of material things, that is. He is active in church work and civic affairs, reads a lot and considers himself an authority on many subjects.

This man runs ten feet ahead of me when we walk to church together and shouts, "Look out for the cars or you'll be run over." He has never opened a car door for me, lit my cigarette, helped me with my coat or allowed me to use the cream or sugar first. Often he is the only male in the room who does not stand when a lady enters.

I've been correcting him about these things for almost 20 years which of course makes me a nag and a shrew. Am I wrong to feel that a man owes it to his wife to behave in a fairly civilized manner? What can I do to make him see it my way?—RATHER STAY HOME.

Dear Rather: If you've been unable to make a dent in 20 years you may as well save your breath to cool your soup. At first his poor manners may have been traceable to ignorance but now they are punitive.

People who behave badly to punish others only make themselves look ugly.

Confidential to Feet Of Clay: You have a head to match, Mister, if you believe that yarn. No man is going to buy a girl a car and pay her rent because she "reminds him of his sister."

JFK Urges Broader Unemployment Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged Congress Tuesday to put three million more workers under unemployment insurance and to increase the size and duration of benefits. Higher federal taxes for the purpose would be imposed, and states would be encouraged to increase their own schedules of benefits.

The President sent to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., a bill to carry out his recommendations, as previously outlined in an economic report to Congress. Kennedy said the permanent improvements in the federal-state system of unemployment insurance are long overdue.

Two cars were damaged in a minor accident at 11:05 a.m. Wednesday in the 1700 block of West Ninth.

Involved, according to police, were a 1962 Ford, driven west on Ninth by Chester Anderson, 37, 1011 East 11th, and a 1959 Ford, being backed from a parking lot by Haskell G. Cully, 45, of the state of California.

The right back fender and bumper of the Anderson car and the right rear fender and taillight of the Cully car were reported damaged.

Police investigated a car-truck accident about 3:11 p.m. Tuesday at Broadway and Grand.

Involved were a 1950 Chevrolet pickup, driven south on Grand by Oscar Reusch, 37, Route 1, and a 1955 Pontiac, driven east on Broadway by Roma Erickson, 24, 171 Summer.

The right side of the truck and the left front of the Pontiac were damaged.

Mrs. Erickson was given a police summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court, May 16.

A tractor and a pickup truck were involved in an accident about 6:47 p.m. Tuesday at 11th and Grand. Both were north-bound.

Involved were a 1962 GMC pickup, driven by Virgil R. Anderson, 42, 615 South Lafayette, and a 1962 Farmall tractor with a disc attached, driven by Rodney Arnett, 21, Ionia.

The right side of the truck was damaged.

Fires In City

Sedalia firemen answered an alarm at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the 200 block on east Fourth, beside the Post Office building, where a 1956 Chevrolet sedan had apparently backfired through the carburetor and caught fire.

Damage was estimated at $10 by firemen.

The car was owned by Sherrill Fultz, 504 West 22nd.

Plan to Form Human Relations Board for City

A meeting, sponsored by the North Side Citizens, the NAACP and the church of the north side, to which invitations have been sent to all civic clubs, councilmen, the mayor and others, will be held at Taylor Chapel Methodist Church, East Pettis and Lamine, Friday at 8 p.m. The purpose is for discussing and possibly organizing a Human Relations Board for the City of Sedalia.

With much concern the future has been deliberated and many citizens feel that a Human Relations Board could act as a satisfactory mediator in any grievances, in the opinion of spokesmen for the groups. Certain problems that may arise as time goes on could be solved through the board, they say, thereby eliminating embarrassment and disunity.

The meeting is open to the public and all interested in the welfare and the future of Sedalia are invited to attend and express their views.

tackle box containing assorted lures, floats, sinkers and hooks was stolen from 1624 West 14th sometime between Saturday and Sunday evening. Also missing are two pairs of pliers and a screwdriver.

Merchandise totalling about $185 in value was found missing Wednesday morning after a break-in at the B & E Food Market, 17th and Kentucky.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin said the break-in was discovered by the proprietors at 7 a.m. A north door, normally unused, was pried open to gain entrance.

Merchandise missing includes some candy, coffee, gloves and cigarettes, Hamlin said.

Police Court

Lester T. Moore, 620 West Jefferson, charged with driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty and was fined $75.

Gerald W. Anson, Warrensburg, charged with speeding 45 in a 30 mile zone, forfeited a $15 bond.

Howard V. Anderson, 1414 South Carr, charged with careless and imprudent driving, pleaded guilty and was fined $75.

Rodney Arnett, Route 1, Ionia, charged with careless and imprudent driving in connection with an accident, pleaded innocent. After a hearing Judge U. L. Howerton dismissed the charge and ruled the accident unavoidable.

Orin Anderson, 2608 Plaza, charged with parking in a safety zone, forfeited a $2 bond.

The case of Mae Stone, 200 East Second, charged with petit larceny on complaint of George Sanders, was dismissed when the complaining witness failed to appear.

The case of Thomas Albert Miller, Kansas City, charged with assault with fists on complaint of Vickie Bynum, was dismissed when the complaining witness failed to appear.

Preliminary Hearing For Accused Slayer

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Pfc. Randy Miksell, charged with first degree murder in the death of Maurice F. Mosher, will have a preliminary hearing in Johnson County Magistrate Court next Monday.

Miksell, stationed at the Nike missile base near Gardner, Kan., has admitted he killed Mosher after the two men drank beer on the road where the body was found Sunday morning.

Mosher lived at Springfield, Mo., and was headed for Horton, Kan., to visit his mother.

The board approved the graduation of the senior class, subject to approval by the instructors, along with the commencement week schedule of activities.

The board approved the resignations of Sandra Bridgman, Betty Hopkins, Betty Horton and Patty Wagenknecht, and approved a leave of absence for Mrs. Barbara Schultz for the 1963-1964 school year.

Bonds in the amount of $74,000, which have been paid off, were burned.

The board approved a request from civil defense officials to store shelter supplies temporarily at Broadway School.

Dr. Norris expressed great satisfaction with the final results of the civil defense exercise recently held in the school system.

Glasscock Is Named Governor Of District 8

Ralph Glasscock, Clinton, was elected governor of District 8, Optimist International, at the Optimist convention held in St. Louis over the weekend. Fred Arbogast told the Sedalia Optimist Club Tuesday noon, at the meeting held at Bothwell Hotel. Ken Kirschner, Jefferson City, was elected lieutenant governor and Jim Johnson, Clinton, secretary.

In giving highlights of the convention, Arbogast stated that the young winner in the Boys Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Sedalia Club, William Solon, Jr., made a fine showing at the oratorical contest in St. Louis. He was not a winner but did an excellent job.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Richard Witcig, and Harry Young gave the invocation. Joe Forsee led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests of Harry Young introduced were his father, Chris Young, Ralph Stewart and Harold Norton. The program was a film, "The Petrified River" which was the story of uranium.

A very fine letter of appreciation from Solon for the opportunity to participate in the oratorical contest locally and in St. Louis, was read by Witcig.

Refreshments will be served during the social hour.

War Dads to Meet

American War Dads and Auxiliary will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Labor Hall. Mothers and Gold Star Mothers will be honored.

Cooper On Longest Flight;
Orbital Plan Is Revealed

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. prepared today to make America's longest manned space flight, a 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours and 19 minutes.

If all goes well, here is Cooper's orbit-by-orbit flight program:
First Orbit:
The Atlas injects Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft into orbit over Bermuda five minutes after launching. Each orbital circuit, ranging from 100 to 170 miles above the earth, takes an hour and 35 minutes. Fourteen minutes after lift-off, a camera mounted above the instrument panel relays the first pictures of an American astronaut in orbit to a tracking station on Grand Canary Island. Cooper devotes most of first orbit to checking spacecraft systems and his physical condition. Blood pressure and oral temperature are taken early to provide basic data for comparison with readings later in flight. A major goal of the flight is to find out how well man can perform tasks during an extended period of weightlessness. Faith 7 crosses southern United States.

Second Orbit:
Television relays pictures to Cape Canaveral and again to Grand Canary Island. Several such transmissions are planned on passes over these stations and over the tracking ship Coastal Sentry south of Japan. Some of the pictures received at Cape Canaveral are to be converted from slow to normal speed and relayed as swiftly as possible to commercial television channels for home viewing. Cooper's wife, Trudy, and two teen-age daughters, following the flight progress at their Houston, Tex., home, thus could be the first astronaut family to see a pilot in action in space. Most of orbit No. 2 is spent in drifting flight, in which all power and controls are shut down and the capsule moves freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes, revolving once every 30 minutes. Cooper exercises over Australia by pulling on a stretchable cord attached to the spacecraft floor between his feet.

Third Orbit:
Over the South Atlantic, Cooper pushes a switch which kicks loose a 10-pound ball from the base of the spacecraft. The sphere, equipped with two lights flashing every second, settles into an orbit slightly different from Faith 7. During the night phases of the 3rd, 4th and 5th orbits, Cooper is to watch the light, recording his observations on a tape recorder. He is to estimate distance and comment on its appearance against a star or earth background. The purpose is to determine his capability to see a flashing beacon of known intensity and to help set guidelines for future space rendezvous missions in Project Gemini.

As the spacecraft crosses the South Atlantic, the pilot records radiation measurements from a detector attached inside his hatch cover. This is the first of 10 such readings he is to make throughout the flight to chart radiation at his orbital altitude. Of particular interest will be an area above South America and the South Atlantic which has been studied carefully by scientific satellites. The data could provide additional clues to the decay of an artificial radiation belt created last summer by a high-altitude U.S. nuclear explosion. Cooper eats and drinks for the first time above Cape Canaveral. As he nears the end of the orbit he shuts off the cabin cooling system. It is to remain off until the 21st orbit in a test of temperature balance within the spacecraft and to determine how much heat escapes into space. Scientists believe the loss will be slight and could provide information of value in constructing future spaceship temperature systems.

Fifth Orbit:
The pilot devotes this orbit to checking systems and physical condition again. He crosses South America the first time, making a radiation reading. Flashing beacon is observed over Indian Ocean. A second exercise period is conducted as Cooper approaches California Coast.

Sixth Orbit:
Cooper pitches Faith 7 down at angle in an effort to spot a three-million-candlepower light on the ground in South Africa. The experiment is to help determine whether a manned spacecraft returning to earth from the moon can use a high intensity light as a navigation aid. Over the Pacific he releases a 30-inch inflatable orange balloon from the top of Faith 7 and observes and photographs it for 90 minutes as it trails behind on a 100-foot line. The recording of drag effects could determine atmospheric density at the orbital altitudes and provide further information on the pilot's ability to observe an object in space.

Seventh Orbit:
If all goes well, Cooper sets a space flight record for American astronauts, surpassing the six-orbit mission of Walter M. Schirra Jr. last fall. The full 22-orbit trip still falls short of the 64-and 48-orbit rides made last August by the two Soviet cosmonauts who orbited the globe simultaneously. Cooper studies known stars in daylight and dark and estimates their intensity. First television transmission made to the Coastal Sentry south of Japan. Shortly afterward balloon is cut loose and Cooper tracks it, estimating distance at various times. He makes first of seven passes over Red China and eats and drinks west of Chile.

Eighth Orbit:
Additional spacecraft and physical checks are made.

Ninth through 15th orbits:
Cooper is to sleep for eight hours, starting at his option during the ninth orbit. If at times he is not asleep, the pilot will monitor systems, operate the television camera or do other tasks at his discretion. Capsule is in drifting flight during the sleep period. If Cooper oversleeps, the Muchea, Australia, station sends an alarm signal to wake him.

16th Orbit:
Cooper swings a battery of cameras into action. At sunset over the Indian Ocean, he photographs the zodiacal light, the nebulous glow visible in the east before dawn and in the west after sundown. Pictures could determine whether the phenomenon is caused by the reflection of the sun's rays off dust clouds, as scientists suspect. He also photographs the horizon and the air-glow hovering above the horizon in tests aimed at determining whether the horizon can be used as a navigation reference for returning moonships.

17th Orbit:
Cooper snaps infrared photographs of clouds and other weather features. Results could help devise cameras for weather satellites.

18th Orbit:
The astronaut conducts medical, spacecraft, television, radiation and other checks.

19th Orbit:
Southeast of Cuba, he photographs the moon and horizon in a single picture in another moon-return navigation experiment. A 28-foot extendable antenna designed for use on the two-man Gemini spacecraft is given communications check with Pacific stations.

20th Orbit:
Systems monitoring continues. Gemini antenna tested again, this time over Atlantic.

21st Orbit:
Cabin cooling system, shut off during fourth orbit, is restored. Cooper again photographs horizon over Indian Ocean.

22nd Orbit:
In preparation for return to earth, Cooper begins stowing loose equipment over Africa. Above Indian Ocean careful checks are made so the capsule is in proper re-entry attitude and the automatic clock that fires the retro-rockets is correct. Three reverse rockets fire east of Shanghai, China, and Faith 7 makes 15-minute descent to parachute landing 80 miles southeast of Midway Island in the Pacific. Recovery ship picks up the astronaut and he begins two days of intensive ship-board medical examination.

Eight Girl Scouts Win High Award

Senior Girl Scout Troop, 375, held its Court of Honor Monday afternoon at Hawkins Hall, Calvary Episcopal Church, when eight girls received their curved bar, the highest honor that a Girl Scout can receive.

The girls receiving the curved bar were: Sandra Kreisel, Marilyn Reisdorph, LuAnn Cain, Barbara Hiatt, Charlotte Heembrock, Janis Jenkins, Barbara Vaughn, and Kathy Edmondson.

The leader of the troop is Mrs. Robert Jackson, with Mrs. John Cairer, Miss Betty Hopkins and Mrs. Bill Hiatt as assistant leaders. In addition to the curved bar first class pins were presented to the following: Vicki Ray, Cynthia Stauffacher, Jane Reyburn, LuAnn Cain, Sara Jane Muller, Marilyn Reisdorph, Sandra Kreisel, Sue McMullin, Barbara Hiatt, Kathy Edmondson and Charlotte Heembrock. Badges of proficiency were also presented.

Is a Precedent Involved?

Do Sedalia's parking meter officers, the court clerk, the traffic clerk and the poundmaster qualify for recognition under the Police Merit system?

The question was raised in city council meeting and commented on in this column. More light is shed on the subject in a communication from Mayor L. L. Studer who is favorably disposed to getting the merit system operative as soon as possible since it was approved by the voters.

"The controversy at the City Hall," the Mayor states, "involves a group of (six) men; that is, whether they should be or should not be classified as members of the Police Department.

"If they are considered members of the Police Department, then they will be retained in the service subject to good behavior and efficient service without preliminary or performance tests and no reappointment shall be necessary, in accordance with the provisions of the Police Merit System approved by the voters at the City election, April 2.

"Conversely, if these six men are not considered as members of the Police Department then they are subject to reappointment each year and for one year only. And if their appointment is not confirmed by a majority vote of the City Council, then they are automatically out of a job with no recourse or hearing. This has actually occurred previous to adoption of the Police Merit System.

"These men were considered as members of the Police Department in May 1962, based on the recommendations of the Chief of Police in a letter dated May 18, 1962, addressed to the Mayor, members of the City Council, and the Police committee, reading as follows:

"I submit to you the following names for appointment, promotion and reappointment to the Police Department."

"Then followed a statement of 34 names including six names now involved in the controversy: (1) Clerk—Howerton, (1) Clerk-Homan, (1) Poundmaster, and 3 Meter Department men. All of them were appointed or reappointed for one year and confirmed by a unanimous vote of the Council.

"Here, then, is the problem with which we are now confronted at the City Hall, and I am very hopeful that the problem will be quickly resolved as it is having a derogatory effect on the morale of the Police Department."

Did the action of the Chief of Police in submitting names for police department positions now in dispute, and their approval by council, establish a legal precedent?

The mayor has called upon the city counselor for an interpretation in order to unscramble the puzzle which has six city employees uncertain about their status.

It is only fair they should know, and soon, what their positions are with respect to the benefits provided by the Police Merit System.

Racial Action Poses Law Question

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's action in Birmingham's racial trouble, whether or not it boils again, has given lawyers something to argue about.

He has sent 3,000 troops into Alabama military bases—near but not in Birmingham—for possible use in Birmingham if there's a repetition in that city of last Saturday night's violence against Negroes and the Negro riot which followed.

The question is: Does he have a right to use troops in such a situation when no federal law, court order or function is specifically involved? The governor of Alabama, George C. Wallace, says no.

He cites the Constitution—Article 4, Section 4—which says the federal government shall protect a state against "domestic violence" if the legislature or governor asks such protection.

Under such constitutional authority the President could use troops. But Wallace says Kennedy hasn't been asked to intervene with troops or otherwise.

The Justice Department says that up to this point the President needed no special authority—either constitutional or by specific statute—for moving troops into Alabama. They haven't intervened in anything.

But, it was explained, if new disorders break out the President could then decide whether to put the troops in Birmingham under authority of a specific law—Article 10, Section 333 of the U.S. Code—which goes back in history.

It says: "The President can use troops or 'any other means' to suppress domestic violence in a state if it—

"Hinders the execution of the laws of that state, and of the United States within the state, that any part or class of its people is deprived of a right, privilege, immunity or protection named in the Constitution and the constituted authorities of that state are unable, fail, or refuse to protect that right, privilege, or immunity, or to give that protection."

Under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution all citizens are guaranteed the right of equal protection of the laws.

But, despite the explanation at the Justice Department that the President could decide whether to send troops into Birmingham if new rioting began, one thing seems obvious.

Kennedy must have already decided to send in the troops if rioting occurs again because he would lose face if he didn't after making the gesture of putting the troops into Alabama.

It can be argued the President hasn't necessarily made such a decision, that he could wait until after rioting started to determine whether it was so out of hand that local police couldn't—or wouldn't—cope with it.

Yet, if he held back the troops to see how bad the rioting was a number of people could be killed before he made up his mind. That, too, would be an embarrassment to him.

Therefore, it seems plain troops would be used immediately—under Article 10, Section 333—if rioting was renewed.

For this reason the very presence of the troops near Birmingham—although not in it—can be interpreted as a warning to Birmingham extremists not to start anything unless they want the troops in.

But in view of the constitutional provision that a President could use troops to restore domestic peace in a state—provided a legislature or governor asked for them—how could he justify using Article 10, Section 333, without such a request?

In this case it would have to be on his own decision that Alabama law enforcement officers were unable, failed or refused to protect its citizens.

Article 10, Section 333, is rooted in American history, almost to the very beginning of the government. Presidents repeatedly have sent troops into a state to stop various disturbances—even though a governor protested. But consistently the excuse was to protect some federal law or function or uphold a federal court order.

President Eisenhower at Little Rock in 1957 and Kennedy at the University of Mississippi in 1962 used troops to stop mob violence which was an attempt to block a federal court order that Negroes be admitted to white schools. They relied on Article 10, Section 333.

There was a difference in May 1961, when mobs of white segregationists stoned and beat up a number of "Freedom Riders" going through Alabama on buses from Washington to New Orleans.

At that time the President—through his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy—sent more than 600 U.S. marshals into Alabama to protect the riders when Alabama police were slow to do so.

The Justice Department explained the action: to protect interstate commerce (bus transportation) and to see that "other federal rights are given due protection." The governor of Alabama at that time, John Patterson, protested, and, like Gov. Wallace now, said the action was unconstitutional.

The Justice Department didn't say publicly at the time it was acting under Article 10, Section 333, but it can be said accurately this was the case.

If Kennedy uses troops to stop rioting in Birmingham it will—so far as this writer can learn—be the first time a president took such action when no specific federal law, court order or function was at stake. But, as in the Montgomery case, the government could say constitutional protections were.

DEAR POLLY—While wearing a light blue denim dress, I brushed against a freshly painted white door. Result: three short thin streaks, each two to four inches long and a few other small spots. I was afraid to try to take the paint out for fear I would further damage the material. I lengthened the streaks with a pencil and added some more dots. I pencilled the same sort of design on the other side of the skirt's front seam. With light blue embroidery floss, I covered the streaks and dots. It looks like a modern design and after several years of wash and wear still looks good.

U.S. On the Site to Avert Power Vacuum In Haiti

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—American policy on the Haitian crisis is to have someone on the ground to pick up the pieces and put them together again, when and if the place explodes.

This will avoid the mistake made on the other end of the island of Hispaniola after the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo. The United States had broken diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic as a protest against its government. Getting back in to stabilize the situation took a major effort.

U.S. Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston in the Haitian capital of Port-au-Prince therefore has a nasty assignment cut out for him. Flying out dependents of American diplomatic and military officials who remain in Haiti was first step of his plan of action.

Dr. Francois Duvalier's term as Haiti's president ends a week before he is scheduled to be inaugurated for a second term on May 22. It is in this period, when there will be no constitutional government, that the big trouble could come.

Anything might happen. It could be a revolution of the traditional Haitian blood bath variety. Duvalier might be assassinated. He might flee the country. Or he might put down the enemies with the support of his black mass voodoo following.

American officials minimize, however, the possibility of an invasion of Haiti from the Dominican Republic. Its new president, Juan Bosch, a refugee from his own country for most of his adult life, has been having his own troubles in handling domestic reconstruction.

Ordering his army to the Haitian border for a threatened 50-mile downhill march on Port-au-Prince was a diversionary tactic. It rallied opposition to his support. His problem now is to get off the invasion hook as gracefully as he can.

It is impossible to conceive of a more tangled and confused situation. The United States does not now intend to intervene.

It is relying on the Organization of American States mission sent back into Haiti for pacification. If that fails, OAS might ask the United States—which has the necessary ships, planes and men—to act as agents in restoring order.

While the U.S. Navy—really Marine—and Air Force military missions have been withdrawn from Haiti at Duvalier's request, a U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group of 25 remains.

U.S. tourist trade which formerly accounted for two-thirds of Haiti's foreign exchange earnings has evaporated. There has been no American aid to Haiti for over a year.

To keep a foot on the ground, the U.S. has agreed to finance enlargement of the Port-au-Prince airport, insisting that the work be done by an American contractor. The Duvalier government wants the contract for whatever graft it can squeeze out of it.

In past Haitian crises the native army has been the stabilizing influence that restored order. Many of its officers were American trained. Some of the best have disappeared in recent months.

So far Duvalier has had the situation under a control of his own. The rural areas are largely quiet. All the trouble is centered in the capital area.

When it became acute at the end of April, Duvalier's own private army—the 500 TTM or Ton-Ton Macoutes—threw up roadblocks and surrounded the homes of his known opponents.

Clement Barbot, formerly one of Duvalier's principal aides, now considered a principal rival, disappeared but may have escaped to the underground.

Louis de Joie, a mulatto who was defeated by Duvalier in last year's primary—after which Duvalier considered himself elected president—now a refugee in Dominican Republic, advising Bosch.

While Soviet Russia supports Duvalier's cause in the U.N. Security Council, such Communists as are in Haiti are anti-Duvalier. A Czech trade mission in Haiti last March sold tractors on badly needed credit but made no political contracts. If there is a Castro-trained cadre in Haiti, it has not been identified as such.

A new complicating factor is the recent arrival in Port-au-Prince of four members of the Trujillo family. They were invited back by Duvalier and probably are up to no good.

Hiatus Hernia Best Eased With Operative Repairs

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hernia is a fairly common condition that has not received as much attention as it should.

It is estimated that hiatus or diaphragmatic hernias may be found in more than half of all persons who are over 65. Thus age appears to be one factor in its cause.

It also is more commonly found in persons who are overweight. In this condition, the upper part of the stomach protrudes into the thorax through a weakening of the opening in the diaphragm that normally is occupied by the esophagus.

either blows most of the greens away or, in some cases, blows the entire basket away.

To prevent this, first fill the basket with dirt, which will weight it down and also hold the greens in place. The rains keep them fresh looking. This same idea can be used to weight a vase of plastic flowers if one cannot go to the cemetery with fresh flowers very often.—E. R.

GIRLS—This idea has certainly worked for me. This past winter I filled urns, at either side of my front door, with evergreen clippings and arranged them in the dirt. The rain and snow kept them fresh looking for over two months without a change of greens.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I have a way to use some of those surplus wire coat hangers most of us have. For children who are old enough to hang up their own clothes, but too short to reach the rod on which the clothes are to be hung, pull the bottom of the hanger down as far as it will go and place the hanger over the rod, with the hook at the bottom. The new loop at the bottom of the hanger will accommodate three or four hangers the children can reach. To make regular hangers fit the children's smaller clothes, bend the ends of the hangers down to fit the shoulders of their garments.—MRS. J. M. K.

Medicines to relieve symptoms are often prescribed, but they are only a stopgap, since they cannot remove the cause of the symptoms.

If pain and heartburn are persistent, the only sure relief is operative repair. This is especially important because, in addition to giving relief, it will prevent serious complications from developing.

The operative technique has been perfected, and the results have been excellent.

Q—If a person has a diaphragmatic hernia, should he avoid strenuous exercise, such as golf or tennis?

A—Since while playing tennis or golf you would be in the upright position, it should not have an adverse effect on your hernia. In fact, anything that improves your general health should be good for it and should put you in better shape for an operation if one becomes necessary.

THE WASHINGTON POST: Congress Has "Slows."—Lincoln would have had a word for the present Congress. Like some of Lincoln's generals, it has the "slows." Having frittered away three months, it shows precious little evidence of settling down to work. The record of two routine bills passed to date is about what one would expect, however, from a loosely organized body operating without an agenda or any strong centralized leadership.

What is needed is a restoration of the prerogatives of leadership to the central leaders of both houses. It is not necessary of course to make dictators of the speaker or the floor leaders, but unless they are given authority to curb the little dictators who now run the Congress, or to plow around them, the frustrations that are now worrying the country are likely to worsen. How many more years of muddling will be required to induce Congress to look in the mirror?

Discipline 'Bad Boys'

Representative Wright, Democrat of Texas, says 10 per cent of Congressmen are "bad boys" and should be punished. He believes that for the good of the nation, the 90 per cent of good boys (and girls) in Congress should share the discipline necessary to make the delinquents behave.

"Public officials live in a gold fish bowl and they should," said Wright. "If they are unwilling to conduct themselves, both publicly and privately, in such a way as to reflect credit, rather than disgrace upon this government and the people whom they represent, then they should get out."

The Texan suggested that Congress pass a

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Fred W. Wesner, Sedalia attorney, was the principal speaker at the annual Jefferson Day luncheon of the Saline County Women's Democratic club at Marshall. His subject was Thomas Jefferson.

—1938—

In the final election for the Smith-Cotton junior class candle-service queen, Miss Dorothy Banks was elected. Her two attendants will be Misses Nancy Willets and Jeanne Rector.

FORTY YEARS AGO

At the ladies' night program of the Sedalia Rotary club in the Hildebrandt hotel, the following officers were installed by Dr. Guy Titsworth: President, R. M. Johns; Vice-President, H. C. Feuers; Secretary, Guy Peabody and Treasurer, Arthur Hoffman. Roy Puckett became a new member. During the evening cigars were passed to the gentlemen and chewing gum to the ladies, the compliments of Frank B. Long, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Long, who was born April 16.

bill binding its members, by sworn statements on income, gifts, payrolls and official travel practices. Violators of the proposed code of honorable congressional living should face a $10,000 fine.

Mr. Wright must have discovered the bad boys, or he would not propose such drastic action. Perhaps the 10 per cent "bad boys" know they are suspected and will amend their ways, or give up their gold fish bowl for a more secluded habitat, lest their sins be discovered.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JFK's Chief Supporter Deserts Him

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One result of the Alabama race riots has been the prolonged absence of one Alabama congressman from Washington. He is Carl Elliott of Jasper, who happens to be the man Kennedy got appointed to the House rules committee for the specific purpose of breaking the Republican-Dixiecrat hold on that bottle-neck committee and thereby unlock Kennedy legislation.

What hasn't been widely publicized is that Rep. Elliott has now turned against Kennedy on certain important issues. That is one reason he is remaining in Alabama.

Specifically Elliott is against the youth employment corps legislation, now before the rules committee. This is a measure to create camps for unemployed youths in order to keep them off the streets and reduce juvenile crime. The corps would operate somewhat similar to the CCC camps before the war which cleaned up the forests, drained swamps and improved the recreation areas.

Elliott is against this bill because the youth camps would be integrated, and the race question has become so hot in Alabama, partly as a result of the Birmingham demonstrations, that any congressman who voted for integration, even indirectly, would be defeated.

If Elliott remains away from Washington, there will be a tie vote in the rules committee and the youth corps bill will be defeated. If he returns to Washington, he'll vote no, and it will also be defeated. And because Kennedy is unpopular in Alabama, Elliott may vote against other vital measures.

This highlights the unwieldy mechanics of government on Capitol Hill today, whereby one or two men can block legislation of interest to millions.

First Dulles Airport Crash

The most embarrassed gentlemen in Washington today are two top officials of the Federal Aviation Administration, which sets the safety regulations for all United States aircraft.

Dr. Mervin K. Strickler Jr., and his assistant Ralph R. Lovering, whose job it is to educate aircraft owners, pilots and manufacturers about aviation safety, are responsible for the first aviation crash at the famed new Dulles international airport.

Lovering was piloting an FAA leased Piper Pa-Comanche from Washington National Airport and swung in for a practice approach at Dulles at 9:23 a.m. The $20,000 plane crashed with "substantial damage to the aircraft, roughly estimated at $5,500." The men were unhurt.

Aviation officials refused to comment, but Lovering simply forgot the first rule of a would-be pilot—lower the wheels when coming in for a landing.

The FAA ordinarily investigates non-fatal light plane accidents such as this but since this involves its own personnel, the investigation was turned over to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Civil Aeronautics Board personnel, who have no love for the FAA, refused to comment, but giggled when queried.

An FAA spokesman explained that Lovering and his boss Strickler, chief of FAA's aviation education division, were flying because they "have to maintain proficiency as a pilot" in order to command the respect of the aviation industry when they are educating the industry on safety.

Wheat Referendum Expected To Bring Big Midwest Vote

KANSAS CITY (AP)—One thing both sides agree on about next Tuesday's wheat referendum—it will turn out a whopping big vote in this part of the Midwest.

Just how big even the experts have no idea. That's because landlords, tenants, husbands, wives and even children—if they can show a direct interest in the crop—will be eligible to ballot.

In Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Colorado, campaigning has been hot and heavy. Both sides say they will win. But neither has a proven yardstick to measure sentiment. That's because in this election the little producer—the so-called 15-acre farmer—will have a voice for the first time.

That means the size of the crop will have nothing to do with the size of the vote. Kansas produces over 200 million bushels. Missouri turns out between 35 million and 40 million. But observers say Missouri will poll twice as many votes as Kansas. At issue is the question of rigid government controls or fewer controls.

The government plan must be approved by two-thirds of those voting to become effective. If it is defeated, proponents say, wheat prices will tumble and there will be chaos in the farm belt. Opponents deny this strong, and assert less rigid plans are ready for congressional action and will be put into effect.

A factor that could influence the voting is the weathering of the election day and in general, Western Kansas and Colorado, for example, are suffering a drought which may cut deeply into local yields. Proponents stress the insurance features of the government plan which, if a drought occurs next year, would help such farmers.

Lines have been drawn fairly sharply in the four states. In general, it is the American Farm Bureau Federation against the field of other farmers' organizations such as the National Farmers Union, the National Grange, the National Farmers Organization.

The Farm Bureau is against the plan. The others are for it. Considerable influence also is being applied in some sectors by the Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, through whose county office most government information is being channeled. Many county ASC workers have been active campaigners in behalf of the program although others in the past have been merely dispensing impartial information to help farmers make their decision.

Public meetings have been held in practically every wheat-producing county and will continue right up to election day. These have produced much oratory and occasionally some fireworks.

As the campaign went into the final stages, here's how it looked in the four states:

Kansas—40,000 voted last year; 100,000 expected to vote this year. Farmers Union, Grange and NFO joined in support by Kansas Association of Wheat Growers. Farm Bureau aided in opposition by some livestock interests.

Missouri—2,000 voted last year; up to 200,000 expected to vote this year (Missouri has 105,000 of those 15-acre farmers). Strongest support provided by powerful Missouri Farmers' Association, along with NFO and many ASC county committees. Farm Bureau aided in opposition by Missouri Livestock Association.

Nebraska—15,000 voted last year; 50,000 expected to vote this year. Strongest support from a state committee composed of representatives of Nebraska Wheat Growers Association, Grange, NFO, Nebraska On-the-Farm Grain Storage Committee, and one county Farm Bureau group which is backing the state organization. Opposition headed by remainder of state Farm Bureau Federation, Nebraska Cattle Feeders Association, National Livestock Feeders Association, and American National Cattlemen's Association.

Colorado—7,000 voted last year; about 25,000 eligible to vote this year. Proponents led by Farmers Union, Grange and Colorado Wheat Producers Association. Opposition led by Farm Bureau.

Space Effort Calls For Little Sleep

WASHINGTON (AP) — To replace Newton N. Minow as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission President Kennedy has picked a 34-year-old lawyer who finds some "green shoots" sprouting in what Minow once described as "a vast wasteland"—the field of television.

Minow, 37, handed in his resignation Tuesday, five years before his term ends, to become executive vice president and general counsel of Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc.

To take his place, Kennedy chose E. William Henry, former member of a Memphis, Tenn., law firm, who has served as a commissioner on the FCC since last August.

Minow's resignation, to take effect June 1, set off a shuffle involving five jobs.

To fill the vacancy on the commission, the President announced his intention to appoint Asst. Atty. Gen. Lee Loevinger, 50, who has been in charge of the Department of Justice's antitrust division.

As his replacement, Kennedy said he would name William H. Orrick Jr., 47, now deputy undersecretary of state for administration.

For Orrick it will be a return to familiar grounds. Before being named to the State Department post last July, he served for more than a year as assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division. He is said to be a trusted lieutenant of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chain reaction of job changes was reported to be completed with William J. Rockett, now assistant secretary of state for administration in charge of personnel, succeeding Orrick and Herman Pollack, deputy assistant secretary, taking over Rockett's office.

In his letter accepting Minow's resignation, Kennedy penned "Dear Newt" over the formal salutation of "Dear Mr. Minow" and added under his signature, "Many thanks for all you have done."

Minow, who came in with the first pioneers of the New Frontier, will not likely get such a ringing sendoff from the broadcasting industry.

Just last April the National Association of Broadcasters convention listened in cool silence as Minow charged that the industry had not succeeded in regulating itself and that the public was "drowning in commercials and calling for help."

On his part, Minow said he had achieved several objectives during his tenure and while the job is by no means finished, it never will be.

Among these objectives were the organization of the Communication Satellite Corporation and legislation to require all newly

Pope John Laments Red Slavic Sadness

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII lamented the "sadness and afflictions" of the Communist-dominated Slavic lands Tuesday in an apostolic letter to Slavic bishops of the Roman Catholic Church.

The pontiff told again of his efforts for Christian unity, mentioning Eastern churches separated from union with the papacy, and urged prayers and sacrifice for preservation of Christianity intact among the Slavic peoples.

He said he hoped for a change in the attitude of their rulers. The Latin letter "Magnifici Eventus" (Of a Magnificent Event) carried the date of May 11, feast day of the saints it honors—Cyril and Methodius, twin brothers and bishops who are called "the apostles of the Slavs" for their missionary work 11 centuries ago.

manufactured television sets to be constructed to receive 82 channels instead of just 13.

Henry, who raised some eyebrows in the industry shortly after taking office by declaring that television programs "exhibit a discouraging degree of sameness, particularly in prime time," had some good words to say.

Communications is in my judgment the country's most dynamic regulated industry," he said. "It already brings a strikingly wide variety of service to our people and its potential for future development is enormous."

In a television interview later Henry spoke of the green shoots in Minow's "wasteland" and said there is a growing awareness by broadcasters of their responsibility to the public interest.

Tiger Trackmen Take Last Meet

By BILL BROWN

The Smith-Cotton Tiger track squad closed a mediocre season with a sound wallowing of the Marshall Owls, 70-50, in the varsity meet held at Jennie Jaynes Stadium Tuesday afternoon. The "B" squad ended its season on a losing note by a score of 71-47.

The Tigers allowed Marshall no breathing room, capturing first place seven out of a possible 14 times. Larus Durnell finished a close second in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and almost made up a huge deficit on the last leg of the 880 yard relay.

Many Juniors proved they will be relied upon heavily by Coach Fred Long next year, and several of Coach Foster McGuire's youngsters showed that they will be counted on next year as Sophomores. Junior Tom Gibbs showed versatility in winning the varsity broad jump with a leap of 20' 1", winning the "B" team discus throw, and placing second in the varsity 120 yard high hurdles. Long-legged Jim Chapman stepped to first place in the high hurdles and second in the 180 yard low hurdles. Mike Rodick took first in the latter.

Terry Daugherty and Chapman finished 1-2 respectively in the high jump. Ken Schrader earned a letter on the strength of a win in the 880 yard run, and Junior Jim Woods coasted to second place in the event behind the aforementioned Sophomore. "Woody" really put forth some effort in the mile relay, breaking the string far ahead of Marshall after Steve Kenny, John Lane, and Roy Eno had provided him with a sizeable lead. Kenny also placed second in the "B" team pole vault, and Eno broadjumped 16' 4 1/2" for first place in the "B" meet.

Fred Wertz brought in third place laurels in the varsity broad jump. Twins Barry and Larry Adams displayed how much fortune they have brought to Smith-Cotton in the pole vault. Larry vaulted 11' 3" for first place, pursued by brother Barry's second place showing in the event. Larry also placed second in the shotput and third in the discus. Harlan Rossman accounted for third place in the shotput. Roy Eno and John Lane finished second and third respectively in the 440-yard dash. Ron Miller racked up another third place in the varsity mile.

The "B" meet was lost by a sizeable margin of points, but there seemed to be a bright spark of hope for next year on the individual performances. Jim Arnest ran to a first place in the 100 yard dash and a second in the 220 yard dash. Bob Longan and Jim Siron paced the field to first in the 880 yard run. Bob Reese finished in a dead heat for first in the high jump, but he outdistanced the competition in the pole vault with a vault of 10'. Rick Strickert finished third in the "B" team mile, while Tom Trout also placed third in the 440 yard dash. Joe Lamy ended up in second place in the discus after it had been completed, followed by Mike Fulk's third. Bob Knapp threw himself into second place in the shotput.

Unheralded this year have been the managers, Dick Nagel and Kennard McKinney, and the boys who have worked out faithfully but have failed to place in the meets. Next year points toward better depth and an overall winning record, providing next year's Seniors provide the lift which they have contributed this year.

Big Eight's Indoor Track On Weekend

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

Associated Press Sports Writer

Five defending individual champions will go to the post in the Big Eight outdoor track championships Friday and Saturday at Manhattan, Kan., but only two are favored to repeat.

They are Greg Pelster, Missouri halfmiler, and Preston Holsinger, Oklahoma State pole vaulter. Of the other three, Iowa State's Larry Eilert rates only a shade behind Leander Durely of Colorado in the high jump.

The other defending champs, miler Mike Fleming of Nebraska and shot putter Richard Inman of Oklahoma, could finish no better than third in their events.

Pelster has the best seasonal time at 1:50.4, with unofficial relay clockings of 1:48.7 and 1:47.5. He is a clear favorite, with Kirk Hagan of Kansas given the best chance to upset him.

Holsinger has cleared 15 feet seven times in eight meets this season and his high of 15-5 is best in the league. Colorado's Roger Olander has cleared 15-4 1/4 and Mick Baller of OSU 15-3 3/4. The field includes two other 15-footers, Floyd Manning of Kansas and Bill Younger, Missouri.

Eilert has been over 6-8 in the high jump several times, but so has Durely, with a career high of 6-10 1/4 for a Big Eight indoor record and all-time best by a conference athlete in the event. Durely, however, will be trying for another victory in the triple jump and this could work in Eilert's favor. Russell Laverty, Oklahoma State and Ross Tunnell, Missouri, have cleared 6-7 1/2.

Fleming reached a career mile peak of 4:08.1 to upset Bill Dotson of Kansas for the mile crown in the conference meet a year ago, but his best outdoor time this season is 4:12.7.

Pat McNeal of Kansas State has dipped to 4:05.3 in the mile and Jim Griffith of Colorado beat Fleming with a 4:09.6 two weeks ago. Griffith came back with a winning 1:53.8 half mile in the same meet in mile high Boulder. Griffith is the defending two-mile champion but this event has been replaced with the three-mile and he is expected to pass this up for a shot at a double victory in the 880 and mile.

Inman reached a career high of 58-10 to win the shot put last year. He underwent knee surgery last winter and his best this season is 55-5.

Charles Strong of Oklahoma State could be the meet's only triple winner. He's the league's best this season in the broad jump at 24-4 1/4, 440 at 46.9 and is second best in the 220 at 20.9.

Giants Find Home Is Not Worst Place In The World

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

After plundering enemy territory with amazing success, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision

Spaces Six Hits to Score His 4th Straight Shutout

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days someone is going to get a run off Ray Herbert. Sure they are. But don't hold your breath, Charley.

The Chicago White Sox ace hasn't been scored upon in four straight games and gives no indication he's going to ease up. His next scheduled outing will send him against Minnesota's struggling Twins, who have been blanked six times this season.

The 33-year-old right-hander, trade bait a couple of years ago but a 20-game winner last season, spaced six hits in scoring his fourth consecutive shutout Tuesday night, a 3-0 decision over Detroit.

The victory enabled the American League leading White Sox to retain their one-game lead over Kansas City, 5-2 victors over Cleveland.

New York's Yankees scored a 2-1 triumph over Minnesota behind Whitey Ford's five-hit pitching and veteran Robin Roberts won his first game of the season after four losses, pitching Baltimore to a 6-1 decision over Washington.

The Los Angeles Angels' game at Boston was rained out.

Herbert, just another good journeyman pitcher until he was traded to Chicago a couple of seasons ago, has five shutouts in six decisions this year, with four of the blankings in order. He is within one of the major league record, five in a row, by Doc White of the White Sox in 1904.

Kovacs-Bolas Beat Medics In Wrestling

Fines were earned by four wrestlers on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, wrestling card during the wrestling matches Tuesday night. The two Medics were the first to be slapped with $50 fines each for failing to heed the referees warning and after Medic No. 2 had entered the ring to help out Medic No. 1 against the lone opponent, Steve Kovacs. Lee "Bulldog" Henning and Rock Hunter drew assessments when they fought outside the ring and refused to obey the referee's order. None of the quartet liked the penalties.

In the first event Medic No. 1 and Steve Kovacs were having a rough session in the ring and 10 minutes and 22 seconds had passed by when suddenly from outside the ring plunged Medic No. 2 when he saw No. 1 heading for a loss. The referee, reprimanded Number 2 get out of the ring, he refused, and the two ganged up on Kovacs. The match was ordered forfeited and Kovacs the winner.

Henning and Hunter, both wrestlers of well known rough tactics, got out of hand as they rolled under the ropes and started battling in the aisle. Seven minutes and 14 seconds rolled by when the referee called the event a no-contest and the fine was slapped on.

Two midjet women wrestlers made their first appearance in the local ring and proved extremely entertaining to the ringers. Dolly Darcell, Montreal, Canada, a 66-pounder won the match over the more "hefty" Baby Cheryl, 88 pounds of dynamite. Darcell

Spahn Gets Off Ground After Hit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren Spahn got off the ground Tuesday night and put down any thought the St. Louis Cardinals had of beating him in a baseball game.

A line drive by Stan Musial hit Spahn in the stomach in the second inning. He got up, threw out Musial and went on to defeat the Cardinals for the 62nd time, 4-3, in Milwaukee.

Kansas City hammered out a 5-2 verdict over the Indians at Cleveland. Ed Rakow threw a six-hitter to keep the A's in second place, a game back of Chicago.

The Cardinals got 11 hits off Spahn just 36 times. The 42-year-old lefthander singled home a run in the seventh inning, making the score 4-2 to insure the victory.

The A's wrapped up their game with a four-run first inning. Chuck Essegian doubled home one run. Jerry Lumpe knocked home two more with a double, and Bobby Del Greco singled home the fourth.

Rakow, 4-2, gave up a run in the first but the Indians managed only a homer by Max Alvis after that.

The first fall was won by Medic No. 2 over Kovacs using a reverse jackknife, forcing Kovacs to submit after 14 minutes and 28 seconds. The second period went six minutes and 19 seconds with Bolas forcing Medic No. 2 into submission using an Indian leg lock. The third period ended after seven minutes and five seconds.

Wrestling will be held at the "Ag" building on the fairgrounds Tuesday, May 28.
